Teaching Antigone in Wisconsin

A Great World Texts Colloquium for Educators

Monday, October 3, 2011
Room 126 Memorial Library

8:00-8:30 am  Arrival and introductions over coffee, juice and bagels
8:30-8:40  Welcome! Introductions from Center for the Humanities Interim Director Stephen Kantrowitz and Great World Texts program coordinator Heather DuBois Bourenane
8:40-9:40  Laura McClure, Professor and Chair, Department of Classics and Faculty Advisor to Antigone in Wisconsin. “Sophocles' Antigone: Text and Context”
9:40-9:50  Jill Rosenshield, Special Collections Librarian, Memorial Library. Brief presentation on rare and illustrated editions of Antigone
9:50-10:00  break
10:00-11:00  John Zumbrunnen, Associate Professor of Political Science "Antigone, Civil Disobedience, and the Challenge of Citizenship."
11:00-11:45  Kerry Lefebvre, Ph.D. candidate, Department of Classics “Teaching The Antigone: Curriculum Guide Overview”
11:45-11:55  Resource overview
12:00-1:00 pm  Lunch at the University Club
1:00-2:00  Caroline Levine, Professor of English “Structure and Meaning: A Workshop in Literary Analysis”
2:00-3:00  Kristin Hunt, Lecturer, Department of Theatre and Drama and Integrated Liberal Studies and Mary McAvoy, Ph.D. candidate, Department of Theatre and Drama "Embodying Antigone: Performance-Based Strategies for the Classroom"
3:00-4:00  Brainstorming session: Collaborating toward the Spring Student Conference: Exploring New Directions
4:00-4:30  Evaluations, book distributions and final discussion/Q&A

The Center for the Humanities
www.humanities.wisc.edu
UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON
(608) 263-3412 • info@humanities.wisc.edu